REPORT OF FIREWARDS.

PLYMOUTH FIRE DISTRICT FOR THE YEAR ENDING
MARCH 1, 1892.

Our village has been more fortunate in the matter of fires than in the previous year. Aug. 19, 1891, the glove shop owned by Frank Gilford was totally destroyed by fire. Also other buildings were seriously endangered. If the proposed fire-alarm system had been accepted, probably an half-hour of valuable time might have been saved. The Hose and Hook and Ladder Companies rendered efficient and indispensable services.

The District, having provided the firewards with ample means, we have been able to largely increase our supply of apparatus. A first-class ladder-truck, built especially for the District, 450 feet of new hose, a new shut-off nozzle of the most approved pattern, and other small appliances have been added during the past year. Still there is an imperative need of a Bangor extension ladder. Six hydrants have been repaired at the expense of the District. Three of these needed repairing at the beginning of the year. Further outlay must be made on the hydrants to ensure absolute efficiency.

The new fire alarm system, though incomplete and rather limited in its scope, has, we think, given an added protection to our village. We regret that the District saw fit to refuse us the authority necessary to secure the entire system. However, we have purchased as extensive a system as our limited means would admit. Besides protection, a reduced cost of insurance has been the result.

The District ought to allow its firewards compensation for their time. To properly care for its hydrants, fire-alarm system, apparatus, the membership and efficiency of three fire companies requires that firewards should be able to give their undivided attention without cessation to the service of the District, at any time. Men of judgment, experience, and ample leisure, are best suited for this position. One brief term of office has more than satisfied us. We are particularly happy that our duties are at an end, as we are none of us candidates for re-election.
